

TOP 11 MOST POPULAR JOB SITES

Don't limit yourself to just one or two job websites because the listed positions are sourced from different websites, depending on which site you are using. LinkUp.com, for example, only lists jobs direct from company websites, while US.jobs has verified nationwide postings direct from employers. Job search engines like Indeed.com (the #1 job site) and SimplyHired.com pull listings from many different sources. In addition, each site has a different set of search options you can utilize to include certain types of jobs in the search results. Take the time to try out a few sites to see which works best for you.

Indeed.com (#1 Job Site)

Indeed is the #1 job site with millions of job listings from thousands of websites, including company career sites, job boards, newspaper classifieds, associations and other online sources of job postings. Users can also upload a resume and get a personalized resume link to share with employers. You'll also find job search tips and discussion forums for job seekers.

CareerBuilder.com

CareerBuilder is one of the largest job boards, providing job listings, resume posting, and career advice and resources to job seekers. CareerBuilder secures job listings directly from employers and has expanded local listings by partnering with many newspapers to incorporate their online classifieds.

Dice.com

Dice is the leading site for tech job seekers. You can search by company, job title, skill, keyword, company, employment type and location. Registered users can upload a search resume, a confidential resume, get salary information, store resumes and cover letters, and track jobs. You'll also find career advice and tech news for job seekers.

Glassdoor.com

Glassdoor is a career community that helps people find jobs and companies recruit top talent. Glassdoor members can find Inside Connections at a company through their Facebook network, see the latest job listings, as well as get access to proprietary user-generated content including company-specific salary reports, ratings and reviews, CEO approval ratings, interview questions and reviews, office photos, and more.

Idealist is the premier clearinghouse for information on full-time, internship and volunteer positions within the non-profit sector. You can identify target organizations by their mission and specific types of opportunities within various niches. Registered users can search for contacts in fields or organizations of interest and message them for networking purposes.

Salary.com

Search and compare average salaries from over 50 million jobs for free. Other salary websites: payscale.com; and salaryexpert.com

LinkedIn.com

LinkedIn connects the world's professionals to make them more productive and successful. LinkedIn is the world's largest professional network on the Internet. You can search for jobs, identify contacts at employers who are advertising vacancies, and follow companies of interest on LinkedIn. Users can incorporate portfolio samples within their profile to showcase.

LinkUp.com

If you want to avoid spam and scams and duplicate job listings, LinkUp is the job site for you. LinkUp monitors thousands of company career sections in order to connect applicants with often unadvertised jobs by providing information on the jobs posted on company websites. Because the jobs come direct from company sites you can be sure they are current openings.

Monster.com

Monster is one of the original job boards and has expanded to include a variety of other resources and apps for job seekers. Monster users can search for (and) apply for jobs online, post a resume, review company profiles, and get salary information and career advice.

SimplyHired.com

Simply Hired operates one of the world's largest job search engines, and connects job seekers and employers through its powerful search engine platform which aggregates jobs from newspapers, employer websites and job boards. The site provides access to millions of job openings across all job categories and industries, reaching job seekers on the web, social networks, mobile devices, email and through its exclusive network of thousands of partner sites. You can determine if any of your LinkedIn contacts work for any of the organizations advertising jobs.

USAjobs.gov

USAJobs is the US government's portal for civil service jobs. Applicants can search for jobs; input, upload and store information to use in multiple applications; and monitor the status of submitted applications. USAJobs is operated and maintained by the US Office of Personnel Management. Getting Started on USAJobs: Creating a profile on USAJobs is simple for anyone with minimal personal computer and Internet searching skills.